Berghaus Men's Deluge Pro 3.0 Insulated Waterproof Jacket - Black

The Berghaus Men's Deluge Pro 3.0 Insulated Waterproof Jacket is built to handle proper bad weather, not just light showers. Combining Hydroloft® synthetic insulation with Hydroshell® waterproof, breathable fabric, it keeps you warm and dry when the conditions turn cold, wet and windy. Practical features like an adjustable hood, elasticated cuffs and insulated hand pockets make it a reliable outer layer for everyday wear and outdoor use.

With a hydrostatic head of 13,140 mm and a breathability rating of 32,457 g/m²/24 hrs, this jacket balances weather protection with comfort on the move. It's an all-round waterproof insulated jacket for hiking, commuting or general outdoor use in cool and wet climates.

Aim of the Product

This jacket is designed to protect you from persistent rain, wind and chilly temperatures while remaining comfortable and easy to wear. It provides insulation to keep the cold at bay and a fully waterproof outer to keep you dry, making it a practical main shell for autumn, winter and wet shoulder seasons.

ORDER CONFIRMATION

- Outdoor enthusiasts and hikers looking for a warm, waterproof shell.
- Everyday users needing a reliable rain jacket for commuting and daily wear.
- Travelers who want one jacket that covers both warmth and rain protection.
- Users who prefer synthetic insulation that still works well when damp.

Product Use

Wear the Deluge Pro 3.0 as your outer shell in cold, wet conditions. The Hydroloft® insulation traps heat, while Hydroshell® fabric keeps rain and wind out. Two insulated hand pockets help warm your hands and secure small items. The adjustable hem lets you fine-tune the fit, and the elasticated cuffs help seal out drafts.

The single-point adjustable hood provides coverage and stays put in wind. This jacket works well over base layers and light mid-layers; for very low temperatures, pair it with a warmer mid-layer underneath.
