Description

Equipped with the genes of the successful Boker Plus Frelon, the French knife makers Raphael Durand and Samuel Lurquin present the SamoSaur, the next pocket knife suitable for everyday use. The special feature lies in the design of the slipjoint mechanism, which is referred to as Cran Forcé. A reinforced back spring presses permanently on the blade root and provides ample resistance when opening and closing the knife. The clip point blade made of D2 masters daily cutting work with ease and features a ricasso on the back of the blade and a robust stonewash finish. The contoured handle scales made of G10 provide a secure grip in every position and round off the tidy appearance of the Boker Plus SamoSaur in an elegant way. Supplied with a high-quality nylon case. Without a clip.
