Description

The designer Liong Mah is responsible for this rendition. His designs are known for their functionality and practicality. The Mahchete has a handle that is offset toward the top for maximum hacking force. The handle has walnut scales with a trailing pommel for a secure grip. Due to its full tang design, the Mahchete has extraordinary strength and the 1075 carbon steel blade contributes its share with a thickness of 4.6 mm. The rustic blade finish is hammered along the face and satin-finished on the edge. This combination almost gives the Mahchete an archaic character. Includes reinforced nylon sheath with plastic insert.
