Description

The Irvs, based on the design by Andreas Weitzel, is a very solid tactical knife with priority on outstanding handling and fast grip changes. While the blade uses the proven Böhler N690, the handle scales are made from textured, anti-slip G10 and mounted on solid steel liners. The index groove in the middle of the scales makes it easier to turn to the reverse grip. The clip (tip-up) is reversible. The deep index finger groove in front of the flipper makes it possible to hold the Irvs short. With large lanyard hole. Delivery includes nylon zipper case.

"Irvs is for me a tool for hard work in different situations. Some kind of all rounder. It has a very good combination of useful design features like the massive and comfortable handle. What are the advantages to the heavy weight? This knife is for hard and heavy works. You can chop, split, break down with this knife."
