Description

Fox Sparrow Folding Knife

Fox Sparrow is a folding EDC knife. For the production of the blade steel 9Cr13MoV was used, and the handle of the knife is made of G10. The folding blade is fixed with a Liner-Lock type lock, and a sub-finger hole is provided to extract the blade, which has a Spear-Point type profile. Equipped with a clip for attaching to a pocket or belt.

The blade is made of 9Cr13MoV steel - this is an ideal option for inexpensive everyday knives. Steel does not give out any supernatural indicators, but for its price it shows very good characteristics. This alloy has excellent resistance to corrosion, shows good wear resistance and cut. In general, the properties are close to 420HC and have a hardness of hardening up to 58 HRC

The handle is made from G10. Fiberglass G10 is a composite material based on fiberglass and epoxy resin. It is very durable, waterproof and impact resistant. Perfectly amenable to processing and coloring. It is used everywhere on all modern knives.
