Description

Red dot - a kind of optical viewfinder that allows for quick and precise target tracking over a short distance with no need to close one eye. The shooter's field of view becomes much wider and can react immediately e.g. to moving targets on the sides.

19923, German brand Lensolux red dot sight with mounting on a standard 22 mm RIS rail. It contains four types of target sight (dot, cross, dot with circle and dot with circle overlapping the cross) and a gradual adjustment of the intensity to easily adjust it to the prevailing weather conditions. Designed for mounting on small arms, rifle, combined weapons.
