Description

Reflex Rescue blanket is made of a three-ply composite material with aluminum-coated polyester sheeting. Lattice reinforcement and bound edges make this blanket extremely tough and suitable for long term use. The eyes in each corner extend the range of uses, making the blanket suitable as emergency equipment, for rescue and mountain-rescue assignments, expeditions etc. Offers protection against moisture, cold, hypothermia and exposure. In such cases the blanket must be used silver side down.

The blanket also protects against extreme exposure to the sun and heat, in which case it must be used silver side up. The rescue blanket can also be used as an awning in emergencies, to send signals, protect against snow, rain and stormy weather, to facilitate transport, as a mat on which to sit or lie and as a cover for car windows.

- With textile reinforcement and taped hem.
- Waterproof
- It has 4 eyelets for improved fastening and can be used as a fly sheet or groundsheet.
- Reflects the body's heat preventing hypothermia.
- Reflection rate about 90%
- Strong and practical.
