The Softie Elite sleeping bag range features an EPS expansion system, which allows you to adjust both temperature and size of the sleeping bag.

Description

The Softie Elite sleeping bag range features an EPS expansion system (Expanda Panel System) that allows you to regulate both temperature and size of the sleeping bag: wide open for maximum freedom of movement or tightly closed to trap precious warm air for a restful night's sleep. The Softie® filling combines the benefits of natural down with the insensitivity of synthetic fiber. It uses superfine yarns bonded with special resins to create a luxurious down feel. As a result, the synthetic fiber meets the very highest standards. Even in cold and wet weather, Softie® insulation remains warm, lightweight and breathable. The wind and water resistant Paratex Steelplate outer fabric and Softie® filling, make the sleeping bag moisture resistant. The mummy shape, designed for warmth and comfort, and the close-fitting hood with adjustable drawstring ensure a comfortable sleep, even when the temperature drops.

Temperature range Comfort: 7°C.*

Temperature Range Limit: 2°C.*

*Snuggpak's temperature ratings are based on over 40 years of experience and customer feedback. The comfort value assumes that you are sleeping in a tent on a high quality sleeping mat lightly clothed. At this outdoor temperature, the majority of users should feel comfortable and sleep well. The low temperature values are the temperatures at which sleeping bags were used by people with minimal discomfort.

There are many variables that are important to a good night's sleep, including climate, altitude, fitness, and metabolism.
